Jake Gyllenhaal: His Nighthcrawler character inspired by 'hungry' urban coyotes

<https://youtu.be/UPawRAHG-0g>

ANIMAL STUDIES and IMAGES is an advanced workshop especially designed to teach actors to transform into a character. The study of animals enables actors to act and react in new ways, to enrich and expand their own physical and emotional world, and to include surprising and new ways of moving and acting. Jean-Louis and Kristof share the belief that we must see and feel the world through the eyes and body of the animal.

"One of the most important things actors can possess is a relationship to their own body and breath. Jean-Louis and Kristof work with actors in such a way that they immediately understand from deep within themselves their true impulses. Their work is invaluable and I cannot imagine doing a project without them."

LARRY MOSS

"I really like to look into the physical acting characteristics of my character, because it helps me to transform. The Alexander Technique helps me to burrow into roles like gay cowboys and drug addicts by focusing on my posture, movement, and presence."

HEATH LEDGER

"With the best of intentions, the job of acting can become a display of accumulated bad habits, trapped instincts and blocked energies. Working with the Alexander Technique to untangle the wires has given me sightings of another way: mind and body, work and life together. Real imaginative freedom."

ALAN RICKMAN

"Jean-Louis Rodrigue always brings a personal and positive approach to his coaching work. His involvement is timeless and complete. He is generous, genuine, and creative such that even when a character or a story is frightening, it becomes about exploring the work and being of service. Jean-Louis has a clear view of the character the actor is playing and also an awareness of the purpose and structure of the whole movie, which engages the entire actor's intention and responsibility with the project. His work is a useful and exciting way to open my channels for my research as an actress."
